This fonous queen of Egypt has for centurins presented an altogener unique the canting of the end of Egypt has for centuries presented an altogener unique the canting of the end of Egypt has for centuries presented an altogener many and the Cleopatra that makes it so difficult for the player to give it an alequate representation. Miss Davenport, it has been admitted, has made of the role sockep and so enhancing the standy that the feschation of Cleopatra is complete.

From the first act un to the very last, including the great storm episode, a series of charming Egyptian pictures will be preanted. Miss Davenport's reproduction of the famous "Cleopatra barge," with its accompanium of of misc, sleging, crowls of a swaying, autoring figures, armed Reman solilers, brilliant colored surroundings, and her own gorgeonsly nittred persange, make a picture resely withrasari on the stage.

A few minutes later to was hurrying toward his largey, he was harrylog toward his baggy, entrying four pots of Easter likes. As he approached the foud be was spiculished to see two vehicles instead of one, in the serond one rat a man, who called out to Sid:

"Is this Mr. Venner?"

"It is. Ah, Mr. Maegeegor, is that you? Beautiful night for a drive, eh?"
Sid coolly placed his property to the rear of the baggy-box.

"What have you there?" asked Maegement of the baggy-box and the second of the baggy-box.

"What base you there?" asked Mac-gregor, with on attempt to appear un-concerned.
"The Easter Hiles I promised to get for Miss Lloyd," replied Sid, as he stepped into his baggy and took up the relia.

The Progress of V Cazette's Existen of the Cazette.

The first number of the Weymoull Gazette was issued in the spring of 1887. This present number is published and thi nuticle is written in commemoration of the paper's thritten hirthday.

The Guzette, which was the first Weymouth newspaper, awel its inception an origin to Mr. Charles G. Kesterbronk, young, practical printer, with some previous ewapaper—experience—in Abington lividgewater and elsewhere. He dirst located in Dr. Nye's building in the rooms now devoted to Mr. F. L. King's undertaking business. His equipment consisted of a meagre stock of type, an old Washington hand press and one old-lastioned job press. The dirst issue of the paper, which lies before us as we write, was a 7-column follo 23xX inches, a little more than half its present size. The heading read, "The Weymouth Weekly Gazette, a Family Newspaper Devoted to Local Interests and timeral News." It was published for some time Thursday mornings. The paper was then set in "Long Primer, leaded," a type several sizes larger than that now in use.

Mr. Easterbrook's sabilatory was as follows:

The Weymouth Gazette, the first number of which we present to our patrons today, is, as its title purports, a paper to the devoted to the local interests of the town in the opinion of prominent cliptens, there is a fair field in Weymouth for such an enterprise, and the encouragement offered has induced us to economence a weekly issue, in the hope that the basiness will be one of a permanent character. A press in a town of sufficient importance to startain it is advantageous in many respects, as it uffords a medium of communication in public matters which cannot be so readily attained by any other method, and, as recard of possing events of a local nature, it will be found worthy of preservation for the future, while it is of interest in the present.

The Gazette will assume not sectarion or pretty position, but its columns with the open for disensation and criticison consent ing the various topice of public hierers which may arrise. In this department we shall endoctor to present south was as a reconsistent with a regard for the well.

fare and progress of the community, for the fortherance of which able writers will contribute to our columns. In local matters arrangements are being make to prove the forther of new from the different villages of new afrom the different villages are being maked to the form of general interest and lich will be found of general interest and their will a complete summary of boal events in Weymouth, in addition to weekly correspondence from frantizes and other places.

Write this brief introduction, the publisher submits the opening number of the new enterprise to fits patrons, toping the its merits may common that the every family and that our weekly intercourse with the public may prove of value and interest all.

The test number contained a goostl showing of local advertisements. The following firms assume of them still in business had announcements therein.

Letter Announcing His Deter mination.

Not withstanding I have been repeatedly assured—by prominent citizens in every section of my district of a fifth renomination and election to Congress, I deem it best to give this early notice and here and now announce I shall not be a candidate for re-election. The state of my health is such that I am mable to serve the people of the district beyond my present term, espiring March 4th, 1897, to my own satisfection, and this decision is final.

piring March the 1897, to my own satisfec-tion, and this decision is final.

In retiring from public life, which I ex-tered more than twenty years ago as a member of the State Legislature, and in banding back to the people of the 12th district the trust confided in me eight district the trist confided in me eight years ago as their representative in the Congress of the United States, I desire to return to them my profound thanks for the honor done me, and the many expressions of kindness and approval of my public acts. While I have been, and am now, an unincremelsing republican, believing the terests of the country, I have tried to rep-resent all the people of my district, and dis-charge the trust confided to me, with an eye single to the public good. Among the pleasant memories of this service will be the repeated indorsement at the polis of a large number of voters of other political parties.

state and ustion, calling for divine guid-ance and the wisest statesmanship. While I can take un pert in the selection of my uccessor, it is a pleasure to know that the listrict has a wealth of men who will prove th successors to the long line of illustrious men who have preceded me as member of Congress from this district. THE PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

Soldiars' Monument. Snurn WRYMOUTH, March 30, 1896.

about $5000 instead of paying the sum of $30,000, as has been suggested in the Gazette for a hall.

And I think a suitable locution can be had perhaps without cost for land. I have two locations in mind, one of which seems te me would be satisfactory to the whole town and that place is on the green plot in Jackson aquare, East Weymouth. The other place of course I should selfishly prefer because of its locality viz.: npou the green in Columbian square, but I think it is too far south to suit the rest of the town. Don't talk about a memorial hall. How many memorial halls for soldiers shall we find in the country? Very few as compared with the monutunents. Let us have something that can be seen without hunting up a jenitor. A monument placed where I have suggested could be seen by the thousands who would pass it every year, and they went see that the old town of Weymouth had remembered the soldiers who went to war for the pruservation of the union. Let us have a monument surmounted by a soldier at parade rest, facing the south because the foe ha went to meet was in the south and it would seem appropriate that he should face that way—but this is a matter of sentiment.

Weymouth presents Col. Thomas as a candidate for Congress neat fall. A young man of ability, courage and strong republi-ennism, clean. In record, he might to be acentable to the district as a successor to Mr. Morse, whose letter of declination we publish in this issue.

We are eac, calingly obliged to our many friends for kind and complimentary to friends for kind and companionary re-marks in regard in our issue of fast week. Such cheering words are, and will be more kighly appreciated while we live and en-denver to give the people of good things than a whole conservatory of floral tributes. along with our oldtuary notice.

Dear Sirs :- We are in receipt of n copy

G. H. MORBILL & Co., Manufacturers of Printing Ink.

The climatic variation in Homslah from summer's heat to winters' soil is but thirty three degrees but in Weymonth last Monday Jetween 8 a. m. and 3 p. m. we heat no hunge of forty-two degrees. Propic changed from nisters to linear dusters, and yet here are thousands of people what would scouer live in Weymonth than in the Samiwich Islands. We have many things to be thankful for which they have noted.

The letter of resignation or rather declienmpaign is a surprise and disappointment throughout his district not only to men of his own party but to all parties. While a staunch republican, Mr. Morse in the dis-charge of his dwthes has never been par-tisanto the extent of forgetting the best interests of the people whom he has repre-sented, and no man has ever filled the posihe has felt called upon to take on account of ill health is a source of sorrow to his The refusal of Hon. Elijah A. Who will add uniterfally to Weymouth's Interest in the coming political vampaign. Who will succeed Mr. Morse is the question which will agitate the people of the district from now until the convention are mentioned from the people of the district form now until the convention are mentioned from different parts of the district, but Weymouth's first and greatest literest is their own distinguished citizened interest is there was distinguished citizened to the stream of the proved humes equal to the situation, and provided humes equal to the situation, and we see a carallel for the position, merits on multivised support of his own townspin and, so well as other parts of the district. This should be Weymouth's year all along the flier, and the watchword should be "Thomas and Victory!"

The tiszette's effort for a Weymonth chants generally and the people at large entered into the spirit of the occasion and moreg oods, were sold over the counters lu Weymouth last Saturday than ever before in the history of Weymouth's trade. If aving demonstrated that we can have one day of home trade why not have some trade every day and keep the mone; which is carned in Weymonth in Iowir as a circulating medium to do good. As we said last week $1,800,000 is a low estimate for the living expenses of our people and In town we would soon see an improved

8,000 DEATHS A DAY.

Startling Statistics in Regard to When we visit a fectory where there re the most delicate and most diager-na machines, we are amazed to notice now indifferent the workmen are to the danger about them. Saws and knives work rapidly, and yet no one seems to think of danger. Long asso-detion with danger causes indifference there was a contaglous allsease abroad in the land which was killing people at the rate of 3,000 a day in Europe, thirty a day in New York State, and merry 100,000 in one year in the United States, every one would be aroused to action. Yet auch a condition exists looker. Consumition is a contagionar to day. Consumption is a contagional disease, and the above figures concerning it are taken from resent reports. But we have become so familiar with the disease in our midst, that we do not tally understand its ferrible nature.

Yet it is surprising how many recover from this disease. Even after the germs of consumption cause serions duringe to the lungs, thousands recover. As yet, no specific is known for the disease. The treatment consists in giving all to the fody in its efforts to destroy the disease germs.
For two centurien, coll-liver oil has occupied the first place in the list of remedies. The wext valuable remedies are the hypophosphites. Some rely on one abone, but as both are recognized as of great value, we think it best to combine them. Thus you are sure as of great vame, we time it less to considue them. Thos you are sure, of getting every help which the best remedies known to medlerl science can afford. In Scott's Emulsion of Chd-liver till with Hypophosphites, the oil is remisified, that is the oil is broken up into minute globules of fat. The oil is illgested and thus saves the weatened body from duling this work. What will Scott's Emulsion do for those with west lungs? If taken before the germs of con-If taken before the germs of con-amption have secured a foothold lat-tine lungs, it will sat havigards mai marrish the body that the disease will be successfully resisted. In this way it prevents consumption. Even after the lungs are diseased, the body com-elated, and the health gree lip affected it will after enable the system to come off victorious. And even in the last stages of the disease, when all hope of recovery has been abundanced, it les-sens the severity of the attack, and makes the last days more comfortisens the severity of the attack, and cakes the last days more comforma-ble. Scott's Emulsion brings hope and health to the great majority, while it brings confort and relief to all. Scott's Emulsion contains more pure Norwegian Col-liver til than any other

"Certainly no one will deny that it is avoing to fatten a dairy helfer," says a writer in Country Gentleman. "Is it not wrong to starve them? The majority of farmers are not willing to overfeed their entres, because it is expensive; but if they see an article saying calves must be kept thin, and fed on course fodder to develop the digestive organs, surely they will have an excuse for rulaing thin, weak entives and cows having impulred constitutions. Do not think it is to be understood that a highly concentrated rulion, strong in a highly concentrated ration, strong in fat, is recommended, as that is as wrong as the short ration. It would seem, if the young culf is required to consume large quantities of coarse food to get the nevessary quantity of natriment, some of the organs will be overtaxed and others will be underclosed. Begarding a culf having a large stop or, what is engarly termed n 'pot belly,' it will ninest invariably be found to have n small, poorly developed chest and heart girth. In reference o this last your correspondent surely ms, in judging, overhoked this vitniy

"All animuls are in the inturn states and live than those which have been domesticated, and the tendency is to grow smaller in the lamis of breeders." herefore, it seems logical to try no keep size, health and constitution, but always having production in view. Au example might be made by taking two helfers from the same class of dams, both playslently capal at hirth; one to be fed on a nitrogenous, properly baimused intion, to grow fast, produce bout and muscle to be fully developed and able to produce a strong culf when two years old; the other fed on course, non-nutritive fodder, to be always wenk and under-sized, that when two years of age would be of a yenriling keep size, health and constitution

Fears of nge would be of a yearling size. Now the question is, which will prove the better dairy and breeding aminal to reproduce her speeles, and also prove of value in the dairy? Does any herd improve where the young slock are neglected? Most breeders ince breed for an object, production sacrificing size and constitution; the remaint heing that soon their goal, preduction, in also lost. Go slow, and breed for all polats; in the fature they will be required more than at present." years of age would be of a yearlin
